“Players in the Big League” The Role of Women in Society

Friday evening, February 12, 2010, 7 P.M.

From Biblical times to the pre-boomer, boomer and post-boomer generations, women have struggled with their place in society. This evening's speakers will address how society in Biblical times and recent times has either supported or detracted from women's lives and the roles they have played. The questions we wish to raise: How can women be vital and productive throughout their lives? How can they help each other? How can family and society support them in their life tasks? How does one's culture determine a woman's role? What might the future look like for today's young women?

Our two panelists will discuss:

Players in the Big League: High-Achieving Women
By Ursula Mahlendorf, PhD

Biblical Stories of Women: Death Dealing or Life Giving?
By Joy Mills, MA, M.Div

Ursula Mahlendorf, PhD, Professor Emerita of German and Women's Studies, Department of Germanic, Slavic and Semitic Languages at the University of California, Santa Barbara. She is the author of many articles and has also written her memoir, The Shame of Survival: Working Through a Nazi Childhood, Penn State Press, 2009, which has recently been published.

Joy Mills, MA, M.Div, Episcopalian priest and a Fellow of the American Association of Pastoral Counselors whose interest is the interface between Jungian Psychology and spirituality. She is a Pastoral Psychotherapist in the Philadelphia area who lectures, leads retreats and conducts a variety of workshops. She is a published author of numerous articles, the most recent "My Living into His Dying," Journeys: Essays into the Heart of Pastoral Counseling, 2008.

There will be ample time for audience participation which is most welcome.
